NEWSLETTER OF THE ITALIAN CULTURAL SOCIETY

THE STORY OF ITALIANS IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

The story of Italians in Northern California is a story of individual and collective accomplishment. They came early, lured by the discovery of gold. Attracted by the climate and resemblance to their native homeland, they stayed.

The descendants of these people still live in the foothill towns of the 'Mother Lode.' A visit to the village of Sutter Creek in Amador County where their names are emblazoned on historic buildings, or a walk through the Catholic cemetery at Jackson in Calaveras County attests to the sojourn of these Italian pioneers. They arrived in great numbers during the mass migration at the turn of the century. The early immigrants came primarily from the northern regions of Italy. It's estimated that sixty percent of California's Italian population is of northern Italian extraction.

The largest settlement arose by San Francisco Bay where the early Italians settled in San Francisco's North Beach District. As the stream of Italian immigration continued, the district became an Italian colony. Here they built a successful cultural and economic community and spread throughout the Bay Area. Many Italian families in California can trace their American roots to the North Beach Colony.

By 1859 the first Italian language newspaper in California, 'Lecco Della Patria,' was published semi-weekly in San Francisco. By 1931, Italian newspapers operated in Sacramento, Stockton, Martinez, and Weed. Today, the statewide weekly Italian newspaper, 'L'Italo-Americano' is still published in California.

The arrival of the Italians in California coincided with its early settlement by Americans. As a result, the Italians played a vital role in shaping the destiny of California and its economy.

It wasn't long before Italian fisherman had established themselves in fishing villages from Eureka to Benicia, Martinez, Pittsburg, San Francisco, Monterey and Santa Cruz. By the 1880's, California's waters were dominated by Italian fishermen and their graceful sailing feluccas. By 1900, the fishing industry of California had become the second leading fishery in the nation and by 1910, eighty percent of the state's fishing business was managed by Italians. During World War II, Italian fishermen were prevented from using their fishing boats by wartime restrictions on Italian immigrants living along the coast.

Across the state the Italians also settled the states' farmland and played a prominent role in developing today's fruit, vegetable and dairy industries in places like Marin and Sonoma counties, and the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys.

By the 1880's, Italians dominated the fruit and vegetable industry. Italian immigrant, Marco Fontana, arrived in the U.S. in 1859 and along with another Ligurian, Antonio Cerruti, founded the California Packing Company in 1889. Under the popular 'Del Monte' label, their canneries soon became the largest food processing corporation in the world. Most of their workers were Italian.

One of the enterprising Italians who left his mark on California was Domenico Ghirardelli, who traveled through the gold mines selling chocolate and hard candies. He settled in San Francisco after the gold rush and founded the Ghirardelli Chocolate empire, with Italian immigrant labor, at the site of the present Ghirardelli Square.

The California wine industry also owes much to the Italian founders of the industry. In 1881, the Italian Swiss Colony was founded at Asti in Sonoma county by Andrea Sbarbaro as a cooperative of Italian immigrants from the wine growing regions of Italy. The Colony soon became one of the largest producers of wine and dominated the U.S. wine market during its heyday. The founding of the Italian Swiss Colony promoted the widespread participation of Italians in the grape and wine industry and their success in the vineyards of the Napa, Sonoma and Central Valleys.

Perhaps the most inspiring of California's Italians was Amadeo Pietro Giannini, the 'Giant of the West.' Born in San Jose in 1870 of immigrant Italian parents, Giannini organized the Bank of Italy in North Beach, San Francisco in 1904 to aid his fellow Italians. Breaking new ground he established the first statewide system of branch banks in the nation by opening branches in the Italian neighborhoods across the state. Italians provided most of his work force. In 1930 he changed the name to Bank of America. Mr. Giannini's bank soon became the largest bank in the world.

Italians played a prominent role in the creation of California. Their story is our story - their experience ours. Their contributions are often overlooked but the enterprise and success of these Italian pioneers is a unique legacy, one shared by all of us.

MEET THE AUTHOR:
“Waiting for Yesterday”

Admission $10 • At the Italian Center, Carmichael

Award winning author Michael Parenti will speak about his book, ‘WAITING FOR YESTERDAY- Pages from a Street Kid’s Life.’ Growing up in the Italian working class neighborhood of East Harlem, New York, Parenti revisits his personal experiences in his neighborhood and with his family, school, religion and his Italian American ethnic identity with a fresh understanding. From the 1890s to the late 1950s East Harlem was predominantly Italian. The area referred to as Italian Harlem was the largest Italian community in the United States numbering over 90,000 during Parenti’s youth. Join us for his informative reflections on Italian American life and culture. Copies of Michael’s book will be available for purchase. REFRESHMENTS INCLUDED.

MEET THE DIRECTORS:
“Finding The Mother Lode”

Admission $10 • At the Italian Center, Carmichael

Film-makers Gianfranco Norelli and Suma Kurien return to the Italian center for this special showing of their new film documentary entitled ‘FINDING THE MOTHER LODE: Italian Immigrants In California.’ This is the first film documentary about the fuller history of the Italians in California. Italians first came to California with the Gold Rush and found a Mother lode in mining, farming, fishing, wine making, banking and commerce. The Italian experience in California is marked by economic success and social mobility. This film tells the story of the unique experience of Italians on the West coast. REFRESHMENTS INCLUDED.

Sunday, April 27 at 2:00 pm
Italian Genealogy Workshop Series:
Exploring Italian Government Databases

Admission $10 • At the Italian Center, Carmichael

Nick Bloise, Director of the Italian Genealogical Society of Sacramento will be leading a discussion on the topic of exploring Italian government databases with guests Anthony & Sonia Alioto. The presentation will focus primarily on using advanced search technology to help obtain family records through the use of the Italian Government Property Registry of abandoned properties in Italy. These abandoned lands and homes may remain unclaimed over the years by emigrant families from Italy whose descendants now reside in in the USA. In many cases these Italian properties, after many decades, have become only distant, inaccurate memories. Finding a family name in a database could lead to answers for your family genealogy.

You’re invited to submit your family genealogy data for a live online session with the Italian Government server on Sunday April 27, 2013 at the Italian Center in Carmichael. For more information please contact Nick Boise, Director of the Italian Genealogical Society of Sacramento at: nickb812@yahoo.com. REFRESHMENTS INCLUDED.

Sunday, May 4 at 1:00 - 3:00 pm

LECTURE SERIES:

“The Italian Garden Project”

Admission $10 • At the Italian Center, Carmichael

Mary Menniti loved to garden with her nonno, and her desire to document and preserve the legacy of today's Italian American Gardens for future generations grew with her. Not only are these gardens interesting from the perspective of producing an abundance of vegetables, fruits and herbs, but also from an environmental and sustainability standpoint; Italian gardeners were eco-friendly before anyone started using the term! Italian-American gardens have been part of the American landscape since the first Italians arrived, and what these old world gardeners have to teach us becomes ever more relevant. Mary founded The Italian Garden Project™, where the mission is to celebrate the joy and wisdom inherent in the traditional Italian-American vegetable garden, preserving the Italian heritage and demonstrating its relevance for reconnecting to our food, our families, and the earth. The project has created an online library of instructional gardening videos and photos of Italian vegetable gardens that continue to flourish as new generations carry on the tradition across the country.

Join us for Mary's powerpoint presentation about our gardening heritage. Mary presented her Italian Garden Project™ at Lidia Bastianich's Eataly Restaurant last year and we're excited to bring this special event to Sacramento. REFRESHMENTS INCLUDED.

“DaVinci And The Code He Lived By”

Admission $10 • At the Italian Center, Carmichael

Renowned as the “Mind of the Renaissance,” the genius of Leonardo da Vinci reaches beyond the centuries. Painter, sculptor, engineer, and scientist, in each field Leonardo da Vinci was both master and pioneer. Creator of some of the world's great artistic masterpieces such as the Last Supper and the Mona Lisa, he was also a visionary whose fantastic inventions would become reality only hundreds of years after his death. Against a backdrop of 15th century Italy, this documentary film tells the remarkable story of the original Renaissance man. REFRESHMENTS INCLUDED.

Bambini Dancers Celebrate Holiday Traditions

Perchè L'italiano? Why Italian?

Italian is la bella lingua, "the beautiful language," often rated the most beautiful language in the world. Nearly 85 million people speak Italian. It is one of the most popular languages taught in the world and instruction in American schools is growing. Knowledge of the Italian language gives travelers to Italy greater appreciation of its culture and many treasures. According to UNESCO, 60% of the world's treasures are to be found in Italy, and the country is home to some of the most famous locations and beautiful landscapes making it one of the top tourist destinations. Italian is also a language of business opportunities with an estimated 7500 American companies doing business in Italy and a wide array of Italian companies doing business in the United States. There is truly something special about the Italian language and there is no better time to start learning than the present.

Il Museo Dell'Automobile, Torino

The National Automobile Museum of Turin is among the 50 best Museums in the world, falling in 35th place with competition like the British Museum and the Smithsonian's in Washington, DC. After a recent redesign, it's a cutting edge European cultural center and an attraction for all. The Museum tells the story of the motor car, its transformation from a means of transport to an object of worship, its origins and evolution to the present, through displays showing the valuable pieces of its collection. The collection consists of about 200 cars by 85 manufacturers from 8 different countries, including Italy and the U.S. Through its valuable collection of cars, the museum tells the story of societies, nations and cultures and their historical evolution in tastes, habits and ideas over the past two centuries. Turin is the capital of the Piedmont region of Italy and was the site of the Winter Olympics in Torino in 2006.

Document Our Italian-American History

IAMLA; Italian American Museum, Los Angeles.

The beautiful Italian Center in Carmichael is both a museum of regional Italian-American history and the hub of cultural activity for the Society.

The new modern Italian Center of Northern California in Sacramento is one of the newest museum and cultural centers built on the west coast in recent years and is home to several major exhibits on the Italians of the region such as "The Italians of the Gold Country" and "The Italians of Sacramento." The Italian Center offers an extensive language and cultural program.

(NOW IS A GOOD TIME TO SHOW YOUR SUPPORT FOR THE GOOD WORK OF THESE CENTERS BY MAKING A DONATION TODAY.)

There are a number of Italian American Museums and Cultural Centers located across the nation and in California cities such as San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Jose, San Diego, Santa Rosa and Sacramento which help us preserve our Italian American culture and heritage and promote the future of our communities

The Italian American Museum of Los Angeles will have its grand opening in April of 2014. The Museum is located in the Historic Italian Hall, built in 1908. The Hall was a focal point for Italian activity and is being restored by the local Italian community. The Museum has a collection of over 6,000 artifacts, photographs and documents dating from the 18th century to the present. When it opens it will feature new high-tech exhibits and displays like the its landmark exhibit "Sunshine & Struggle: the Italian experience in Los Angeles," and offer Italian films, classes and cultural activities.

The Museo Italo Americano, located in San Francisco's Fort Mason Center, opened in 1970 and is both an art museum as well as a cultural center. The museum has created a number of highly acclaimed exhibits such as "Italian Americans At Bat: From Sand lots to the Major Leagues," which documented the history of Italian Americans in Baseball.

Little Italy San Jose is breaking ground on the new Little Italy Arch which is part of their project to revive the original Italian settlement in San Jose. For the past 5 years they have been moving Italian businesses into the project area and have acquired properties and some of the Historic Italian homes in the area for a new museum and cultural center.
